WHAT CAN I Do?

Engage with state & local elections — these are the people who reform police depts & the criminal justice system

Attend LAPD

Police

Commission

meetings

#BlackBirdersWeek #BlackInNature #BlackAFInSTEM

Spread & amplify the voices of Black scientists

Find your representatives here

Follow organizations on social media that are working to end police violence to get direct guidance on how best to contribute

In LA: @BLMLA @YouthJusticeLA @JusticeLANow

If you protest: be safe, be prepared, &

know your rights

Get involved

Open dialogues about being actively anti-racist

1 te

Real change requires longterm, sustained investment, so join organizations & stay involved

Color of Change, Black Lives Matter, Youth Justice Coalition, Ground Game
LA, Reform LA Jails, Aware LA, Showing Up for Racial Justice

And VOTE

Science Policy GROUP at UCLA

www.scipolucla.com @scipolucla facebook.com/scipolucla uclascipolgroup@gmail.com

WHAT CAN I DO?

Discover research & datadriven approaches to combatting police violence & restoring equity in policing

Read nonprofit journalism devoted to criminal justice & social issues

Center for Policing Equity - like this paper on disparities in police violence Campaign Zero uses research & datadriven approaches to equity in policing The Advancement Project uses community, tech, & policy to tackle inequity

The Marshall Project: non-profit journalism about criminal justice Unicorn Riot: nonprofit media company devoted to social and environmental issues

Read about policing reform recommendations from the Leadership Conference on Civil & Human Rights

And VOTE

Like Netflix's 13th and Philip Atiba Goff's TED talk

Science Policy

www.scipolucla.com @scipolucla facebook.com/scipolucla uclascipolgroup@gmail.com